

Bay ban on bags

HUSKISSON, on the NSW south coast, yesterday banned plastic bags, making it the largest town in Australia to adopt a plastic-free way of life.

In an effort to protect marine life in the Jervis Bay Marine Park, on which Huskisson sits, retailers will no longer hand out plastic bags at check-outs.

Matt Cross, coordinator of the project, said it had galvanised the town, the latest centre to join the campaign.
